Tyson the Skateboarding Bulldog

Tyson is an English Bulldog who loves to skateboard. He lives in California near the beach and has been skating for about seven years. When he was still a puppy, he would go crazy when he saw skateboarders and would begin barking and pulling at the leash with all his strength. One day, his owners let him play with a skateboard and in just a few moments, he began riding it.

Now Tyson wants to skate everyday and is unhappy when he is not able to ride. He carries his board, jumps on it and propels it with his feet just like a human skateboarder. Adults and children alike are amazed at his skill and agility. Television shows in England, Japan, South Korea, Australia and the United States have featured Tyson's talents. His movie career includes the films "Lords of Dogtown" and "Undiscovered". In addition to movie roles, Tyson has been a guest on the "Martha Stewart Show", "Oprah Show" and "The Ellen Show". This talented bulldog even has his own website: www.skateboardingbulldog.com.
